

Please listen to Commissioner Copps and continue to seek as much public input as possible on your upcoming decision about broadcast ownership regulations. The fact that so few Americans even know you're making this decision -- and that even fewer understand what's at stake as you do so -- only proves the danger of media consolidation. We need a diverse media ownership to increase the range of thought and speech on important public issues. What's more, a diverse media is a vital safeguard of a healthy democracy. For these reasons, please maintain current restrictions on media ownership. Thank you!
